* Unique Email Addresses

All users on the Mazama beta website must have their own unique account, which must be tied to a unique email address. If your kids do not yet have an email address AND you don't want to create a specific one for them, there is a very simple "hack" if you are a gmail user.

Gmail automatically ignores any portion of your email address that comes after a plus (+) sign. For example, if your email is joesmith@gmail.com, you could create an email address that is joesmith+1@gmail.com and our website will identify it as a unique email address BUT the emails that are sent to that address will route to your standard email address. If I want to register my kids Bob and Sue for FM101 and neither of them have an email address, I could create a Mazama account for Bob with the email address joesmith+bob@gmail.com and a Mazama account for Sue with joesmith+sue@gmail.com. All email sent to those accounts would go to the inbox of joesmith@gmail.com so you won't have multiple email addresses to check, your kids will get to track their Mazama history on their own Mazama account, and the class coordinators will have accurate class rosters.
